The first steps of high availability of HBONE have done, there are redundant network devices and connections.

There is not enough for high availability if we have redundant devices and connections, the routing protocols must handle the network failures very quickly.

There are two dynamic routing protocols in HBONE: OSPF as IGP and BGP as EGP.

First part of our presentation shows how can we reduce the convergence time of OSPF routing protocols.